Corps eyeing underwater crater

Most deep hole cases settled; two appealed; $250,000 suit filed

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Survivors of six deep hole drowning victims have received some $450,000 in settlements from the federal government, two cases are being appealed and another suit resulting from the most recent death has been filed against the United States.

In addition, a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers crew is taking core samples of earth in and around the underwater crater to help determine the best method to stop drownings in the hole which has claimed the lives of some 25 people during the last several years.

Doris Perry, a Corps public affairs specialist in Mobile, Tuesday confirmed the 'core borings' will help the government determine what type of soil is in the hole area offshore from Gulfside Methodist Assembly Center in Waveland which will assist in developing a method to stop drownings there.

When asked if the Corps plans to fill the hole, Perry replied, "We might fill it or do something different based on our engineering report."

Tuesday afternoon, a member of a crew placing a boat on a tow trailer at Bayou Cadet said they had just completed surveying the hole to determine its size and location.

Several poles with fluorescent orange flags were evident that afternoon protruding from the Mississippi Sound in the vicinity of the oblong 400 by 800-foot deep hole. The underwater hole varies from five to 60 feet in depth and is about 1,400 feet offshore.

Norman Breland, a Gulfport attorney who represents survivors of five victims, Tuesday said his clients agreed to settle out of court with the government for $75,000 in damages for each drowning.

He is counsel for the survivors of the late Dale Remy, Freddie Brown, Randall Shorts, Demetrius Myles and Marcy Butler.

Those family members sued the government for $1 million for each death.

Breland also reported the survivors of victim Peter Wells Jr. represented by Robert Byrd, a Biloxi attorney, also settled for $75,000.

Wells' survivors originally sued the U.S. for $765,000.

Regarding new litigation the Gulfport attorney revealed he has filed a damage suit seeking $250,000 from the federal government on behalf of Cheryl Crawford of Slidell, widow of Floyd Crawford who in May, 1981 was the 25th deep hole victim.

Breland said he is pursuing the suit in Federal District Court in Biloxi because two U.S. attorneys agreed to settle out of court and two others refused.

In reference to the two appeals, John Hunter, a Pascagoula attorney representing the heirs of drowning victims Chavela Price and Francisco Verrett, Wednesday confirmed he is pursuing the case in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

He said although Federal Judge Daniel Thomas of Mobile recently awarded $146,000 to Price's survivors and $164,000 to Verrett's heirs, he feels the manner in which federal government attorneys computed damages based on lifetime earnings of the two deceased was 'erroneous' and 'not in accordance with law.'

"We're happy the court found in favor of us, but we felt the method of computing damages was erroneous," he stated.

Hunter said the federal government is 'cross appealing' in the fifth circuit on the basis that the federal government was not liable for the deaths.

He estimated it would be at least six to 12 months before the case would be argued.

Thomas several months ago ruled the federal government was responsible for the drowning of all the victims included in the original eight lawsuits.

The Corps apparently created the hole in a 1966 dredging project which formed most beaches in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

Yankee Doodle Dandies enthrall Nereids royalty

Hand-clapping, flag-waving guests enjoyed a musical tribute to George M. Cohan Saturday night at the Coast Coliseum as the Krewe of Nereids presented its Seventeenth Annual Ball Masque, "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Following pre-ball entertainment provided by the Keesler Chorus, the Royal Court of 1982 was presented.

The officers then welcomed the audience to "Another Opening, Another Show."

The Captain entered as the high-kicking top-hat dancers finished their rendition of "New York, New York." Vaudeville scenes included dancing by the "Four Cohans," a lively Irish jig by the "Irish Wanderers," and an exciting "Day at the Races," complete with jockeys and a special number portraying George M. Cohan as "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Maids of the Royal Court were presented as tributes to the musical genius of Cohan.

The first maid, portraying "Broadway Dreams" was costumed in purple satin with designs of silver stars and edged with ruffles.

The second maid, portraying "Run For the Roses," was dressed in a yellow velvet gown featuring appliques of multi-colored flowers outlined with sequins.

The third maid portrayed "A Wee Bit of Ireland" and was dressed in a gown of Emerald Green sequins accented in white and her train featured a shamrock design.

The fourth maid, portraying "It's A Grand Old Name," was in a gown reminiscent of the early 1900's and was made of soft rose velvet featuring many layers of ruffles draping to form a train.

At Waveland meeting:

Zone change request opens can of worms

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
An attempt to change a zoning classification in eastern Waveland near the beachfront resulted in the proverbial can of worms opening for city officials.

The Waveland Planning and Zoning Commission at a Tuesday night meeting and public hearing voted not to change an R-3 (multi-family dwelling) area to R-1 (single family dwelling) as requested in a petition and recommended the City Board of Aldermen update the town's 13-year-old zoning map.

Some 22 property owners attended the meeting and several voiced support or opposition to the re-zoning proposal. Bay St. Louis is now updating its zoning map.

But the hearing raised several points about the city's present zoning map and zoning change system.

Several property owners in the R-3 area objected to the proposal and not being notified in some way personally that their land classification could be altered.

Roland Hymel of New Orleans and Marilyn Hernandez of Metairie, both landowners apparently in the R-3 area, said they learned of the change only from a front page report in The Sea Coast Echo.

In addition, when the petition was first discussed at a recent City Board of Aldermen meeting, the city officials refused to reveal what area of the city they were talking about.

Lucien Gex, city and commission attorney, revealed the city's present zoning map approved March 22, 1972, by the City Board of Aldermen is a small map folded into the meeting minute book which does not in all cases accurately delineate zone boundaries.

Supervisors declare Hancock flood damages an emergency

By BRENT MACEY
In an attempt to seek any federal aid available, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday declared flood damages in Hancock County an emergency.

Some 30 fishermen from the Bayou Cadet area of the county attended the meeting with a petition in hand requesting the supervisors take any and all action necessary to provide economic assistance to Bayou Cadet fishermen who have suffered economic losses.

Ronnie Ferrell, president of the Hancock County Fishermen's Association, said seven fishing boats were lost or sunk during a storm Thursday and 11 have been beached.

In commercial fishing boats alone, Robert (Bobby) Boudin, Hancock County Civil Defense director, said some $357,800 in damages have been reported.

"That's fishing boats only, not pleasure boats," Boudin said.

Boudin is attempting to gather estimates of damages in the county and coordinate attempts to obtain. Small Business Administration loans for storm victims.

Some 35 families had already notified Boudin of flood damage, he said Monday.

Of all the boats which were damaged, Boudin said only one boat owner had some insurance.

Cleaning up debris and getting the fishermen back in operation was the major priority established by the supervisors.

The board agreed to hire two divers—for a maximum of 10 hours—to locate and mark vessels and other debris in Bayou Cadet. Sunken boats and debris are currently preventing this operation from continuing.

Dredging will also be required to remove silt washed into the bayou during the storm.

News Brief

BENEFIT DINNER

A benefit bar-b-que dinner and dance is planned Saturday starting at 7 p.m. at the Jordan River Shores Clubhouse for the Donald Hillman family. A recent fire destroyed the family's furniture and clothing at their Hancock North Central residence.

CONCERNED PROPERTY OWNERS—Crowding a Waveland City Hall meeting room Tuesday night are several of some 22 property owners who attended a City Planning and Zoning Commission hearing regarding a proposed zoning change near the city's eastern border in which petitioners sought changing an R-3 (multi-family dwelling area) classification to R-1 (single family). Members of the commission are, seated from left, Lester Haverly, Betty Diboll and Charles Dickson; and right, Lucien Gex, commission and city attorney. Not shown are Dr. Earl Bréaux, a commissioner; and Barbara Rappold, zoning official, city secretary and an alderman. The commission unanimously agreed not to change the zoning classification and recommended the Waveland Board of Aldermen update the city's 13-year-old zoning map. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Caution urged in entering fur business

MISSISSIPPI STATE — According to a Mississippi Extension Service specialist, one or more companies are offering Rex rabbit breeders for sale in the state for as much as $500 per rabbit.

"Rex rabbit breeding animals are advertised for sale by members of the American Rabbit Breeders Association for $50 or less per rabbit," said Dr. Robert L. Haynes, leader, Extension Poultry Science.

Oren Reynolds, director and former president of the American Rabbit Breeders Association (ARBA) and editorial Director of Domestic Rabbits, a trade publication, advises buyers to beware of buy-back schemes.

"Stay clear of genuine buy-backs," he said. "Don't pay excessive prices for stock and equipment because of the promise of resale. Don't pay an excessive sum of money to join an organization that offers a contract."

He advises prospective buyers to first check the firm with the Better Business Bureau, local chamber of commerce and the local banker. He recommends having the contract checked by a lawyer before signing, so that you are certain of its terms.

Haynes said the fur of the Rex rabbit is different from the fur of other rabbits.

"The fur has an unusual velvet quality and looks similar to sheared beaver fur," he said.

Dr. Tom Smith, an Extension poultry specialist, said meat producing rabbits are processed at about eight weeks of age. He said their hides are a secondary product and sell for about 25 cents each.

"To produce prime no-shedding Rex rabbit pelts, the rabbits must be kept until they reach 20 to 26 weeks of age," Smith said. "Feeding a rabbit 22 weeks will cost about $6. When additional expenses such as those incurred in keeping, breeding animals, housing, utilities, maintaining herd health and labor for the operation, each 22-week-old Rex rabbit will cost about $12."

According to Fred Ritter, broker with Moe Lipson Furs, New York, Rex rabbit prime furs are now bringing only about $9 each. Ritter said only about 25 percent of the Rex rabbit furs grade prime. Furs not grading prime are not being bought at any price.

Haynes said it is hard to get any fur to grade prime during warm weather months.

"Companies that buy furs normally only buy during the six cooler months of the year," he said. "This leaves the fur producer with only a half year to produce some prime pelts."

"Meat can be marketed from the Rex rabbit, but since it is a roaster size when processed, it brings only about 30 cents per pound live weight. The cost of processing and marketing the meat is usually higher than its value.

Radio station burglarized

By ELLIS CUEVAS
An investigation continues into the burglary of WKGR Radio Station Sunday night, according to Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams. Williams said, "Entry was gained through a side window in the radio station. Items missing included two reel-to-reel tape recorders, two large speakers and several other items." Investigator Ben Palmer is being assisted by Patrolman Larry Ladner in the case.

HIT AND RUN
Two hit and run accidents on Sunday are also being investigated involving damage to parked vehicles in Bay St. Louis.

Williams stated, "A pickup truck parked at the Jr. Food Mart, US-90, Bay St. Louis, and an auto parked on Second Street were damaged by hit and run drivers. The owners were not in the vehicles at the time of the damages."

NEW CARS DAMAGED
Several 1983 vehicles on the new car lot of Turan-Lane Chevrolet were scratched last weekend by an unidentified instrument, Williams reports.

"New cars on Turan-Lane's lot were scratched along their side. The malicious mischief caused estimated damages of $2,000," Williams allowed.

SYLVESTER RE-CAPTURED
Cory Steve Sylvester, 19, who recently escaped from the Hancock County jail awaiting trial on burglary charges was re-captured Tuesday, according to Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille.

Sylvester and Jay B. Cunningham were successful in a jail escape on New Year's Day when they apparently sawed bars on their cell windows.

Tartavouille said, "Waveland Patrolman Chuck James apprehended Sylvester at a residence on Nicholson Avenue Tuesday."

Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson reports the New Year's escape by Sylvester was his third time from the Hancock County facility.

A Bay St. Louis woman was charged with allegedly supplying hack saws in a chocolate cake to the prisoners aiding them in their escape.

ETV Brief

LOVELORN COLUMN

Eric Roberts, Arthur Hill and Conchata Ferrell star in the "American Playhouse" adaptation of Nathaniel West's "Miss Lonelyhearts" at 10 p.m., Friday, Jan. 28 on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Roberts is the young reporter on a large metropolitan daily newspaper who is assigned by his editor (Hill) to write the paper's popular advice-to-the-lovelorn column. In the process, he becomes entangled in the personal lives of those troubled souls seeking salvation by airing their private agonies in public.

In his assignment, he tries to believe in the sincerity and honesty of the human race. However, once he meets one of his desperate letter-writers in person, an unhappily married young woman (Ferrell), he discovers that base instincts are also floating around in himself.

The television adaptation, filmed in black and white to capture the feel of the thirties, started as a film project of 26-year-old H. Jay Holman and 29-year-old Michael Dinner. The two young filmmakers met at UCLA's Film-making Workshop a few years ago and discussed the possibility of tackling West's novel. The idea became a reality when they received production funds from the American Film Institute and "American Playhouse."

"Miss Lonelyhearts" began for Nathaniel West in the early years of the Great Depression. A young man named Nathap. Weinstein, the manager of a small hotel in New York, suffered a strange schizo-religious vision. Set down in a slim volume called "Miss Lonelyhearts," published in 1933 under the pen name of Nathaniel West, his experience was acclaimed as a masterpiece of the peculiar literature of phantasmagoria —a vision of hell on earth, a scream of anguish at the meaninglessness of human suffering.

Heart Answers

WHAT IS A HEART ATTACK?

A heart attack is the death of a portion of heart muscle that may result in disability or death, depending on how much of the heart is damaged. It occurs when an obstruction in one of the coronary arteries prevents the blood from supplying oxygen to the heart muscle. Heart attack symptoms may include chest pain, nausea and shortness of breath. The risk of heart attack can be reduced by treating high blood pressure, avoiding cigarette smoking, observing a low cholesterol diet and maintaining normal body weight.

MISSISSIPPI TREASURY REPORT

Bill Cole, State Treasurer

P.O. Box 128 • Jackson, Mississippi 39202 AC 601/254-7117

State Treasurer, Bill Cole has presented the 1983 Legislature an Update Report on the state's Unclaimed Property Program and Tax Exempt Commercial Paper Program which were recently implemented by his office as a result of legislation adopted at the 1982 session.

Unclaimed Property

Since the new law went into effect on July 1, 1982, $2,338,949.82 in unclaimed funds have been reported to the State Treasurer.

The law is designed to provide a mechanism for citizens to determine if they are the owners or heirs to funds currently held by various institutions or companies as unclaimed property.

The law provides that after the reports are filed the State Treasurer shall mail a notice to each address known and also publish the names in the newspaper in an attempt to let people know that they may be entitled to certain unclaimed funds.

We will soon begin the process of disseminating information about the new law in order to better acquaint the public as to the possibilities that they might have unclaimed funds to which they might be entitled. As the data from the reports is compiled, we will attempt to locate those listed on the reports, and we are hopeful that many rightful owners can be located. Many prominent people, including public officials, have been listed on the reports we have received so far. I am sure some claimants will be much easier to locate than others.

Tax Exempt Commercial Paper

The use of the Tax Exempt Commercial Paper Program to fund cash flow deficiencies so far this fiscal year has resulted in a savings to the general fund of $252,164.88.

The tax exempt commercial paper legislation was designed to take advantage of a recent innovation in the financial market and to more efficiently respond to general fund cash flow deficiencies.

Last fall because of declining revenue the need for the program became more acute. The cash flow of state government is such that at certain times of a given month the general fund does not have sufficient cash to cover expenditures.

The occurrences are erratic but the state must maintain a more stable approach to cash management. It has been necessary to borrow at these times in order to maintain that stable flow.

In the past year, however, whenever the state was experiencing cash flow deficiencies the State Bond Commission under provisions of law would authorize the general fund borrowing from special funds.

The problem with this was that special funds were invested and earning interest for the general fund. When we borrow from special funds, the funds are removed from investment and the loss of that interest that would otherwise have been earned is actually a cost of borrowing.

The tax exempt commercial paper program is designed to fund the necessary cash flow at a much less cost and, in fact, creates a positive spread between the interest earned by keeping state funds invested and the interest cost on the commercial paper.

On Friday, October 15, 1982, we completed the issue and sale of $33,000,000 in tax exempt commercial paper at various maturities and at an average cost of 3 7/8%.

If in fact in this instance of needing these funds for this period of time, the State of Mississippi had used its previous method of borrowing for the general fund and removed the $33,000,000 from special funds invested, the cost would have been a loss of interest to the general fund of $807,109.59.

The total cost of borrowing through the issuance of tax exempt commercial paper including interest cost plus actual cost of issuance for the period through Dec. 31 was $354,995.71. The result is that the state's general fund, from the use of this new procedure which actually creates a positive spread between rates, will save $252,164.88 during the period of time that would have been lost.

In addition, we have been able to further improve our position by more closely and productively managing the proceeds from the issue of the tax exempt commercial paper.

As it has developed, we have been able to invest the funds obtained from the issue each month for a period of approximately five days prior to the actual expenditure of the funds in our cash flow. This has meant an additional interest earning during this period of Oct. - Dec. of $110,753.

By closely timing the issue and the expenditure of the funds, we are able to maximize our return for a positive benefit to the general fund.

HANDLING SPECIAL PROBLEMS—Cecil Dubuisson, right, Gulf Coast representative for Congressman Trent Lott, confers with Myrtle Lanaux of Bay St. Louis on her special problems at town meeting. Members of Lott's staff were available to residents with special problems regarding any matter. We wish to commend Congressman Lott on his availability to the electors of his district. The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics

By S. GALE DENLEY

What's going on with food merchandising? The television stations seem to be losing out, after making a toe-hold a year or so ago.

Dear Toe: Last week we addressed your question with a general response, but this week let's examine some specific strategies.

Joanne Cleaver, in a recent article for Advertising Age wrote, "In the last decade, many of the traditional rationales for these stereotypes — such as the 'national brand-joyal Southern housewife' — are fast being replaced by a careful analysis of shoppers' profiles based on demographics, life style, income patterns and neighborhood marketing characteristics."

"Regionalization means more than just regions today," says Willard Bishop of Willard Bishop Consulting Economists, Barrington, Ill. Which specializes in analyzing the food industry.

Adds Audrey McCafferty, manager of public information with the 1,200-store Kroger Co. chain: "I really don't notice a (regional) difference anymore. A number of years ago there were things that sold well in the South, like coffee with chicory in it and Southern vegetables. But that's no longer true. We sell everything in any market."

"Of course, there are still a few areas with ethnic tastes and there we would carry a big supply of certain items. But still, we carry the basic assortment everywhere we operate. It's a great change from 15 years ago."

The "basic assortment" itself has shifted substantially for all stores, according to industry observers. While such items as exotic fruits and dried Chinese mushrooms are often expensive, it's a rare supermarket that doesn't at least try to keep them in stock.

Still, some of the regional buying habits aren't dead — but fading. Just because an item is available nationally doesn't mean that it's equally popular in every market.

The latest Progressive Grover product guide, which lists nearly all grocery categories by the characteristics of heavy users, support that opinion and some of the other time-honored regional buying techniques.

Not only are Southern shoppers more interested in picnic and barbecue-related foods, but they're also heavy users of traditional convenience foods like canned vegetables and frozen dough and sweet items like frozen desserts and sugar.

In the Northeast, eat-on-the-run foods like instant beverages, yogurt and prepackaged desserts are popular. Diet control items, frozen yogurt and avocados are among the most popular items in the Pacific region.

The East Central and West Central regions, though, demonstrate few strong food preferences, according to the magazine's survey.

Ms. Cleaver goes on to discuss many other market characteristics that can affect product acceptance, but I think you get the drift.

A benefit barbecue chicken dinner is scheduled from 7-9 p.m., at the Jourdan River Shores Country Club for the Donald Hillman family who lost all their possessions in a fire at Hancock North Central.

A dance will follow the dinner and we hope there will be a large attendance.

As many of you know, the house was owned by the county with the contents by the Hillman family.

Many folks have been working very hard getting everything together for the dinner and dance. We hope the event will be successful.

It seems water covers Dunbar Avenue between US-90 and Hancock General Hospital about every other year.

Last Thursday's surprise storm created the same problem for a brief period with several feet of water over the road.

There was some talk about the possibility of raising Dunbar in the low area a couple years ago. It ended up as only being talk.

It would be a terrible situation if emergencies would happen during one of these periods and one could not reach the hospital.

We hope the problem will be solved in the near future.

Not too long ago the garbage along the old Bayou LaCroix Road was all cleaned.

A subscriber informed us that the dumping is again going on very strong.

This area is not a dump, it is privately owned land. We agree at one time there were areas in the vicinity which were used for dumping, but, the government closed it down.

We would sure like to see several culprits nabbed while in the process of unloading debris.

One such violator just dumped his debris in the middle of the road, that is getting very brave.

A few stiff fines may be needed to remind people that dumping is not legal on the Bayou LaCroix Road.

While on the subject of dumping in unauthorized areas, we took a ride down Webb Street, Bay St. Louis last week.

It seems dumping is continuing in the area near the railroad crossing.

This is not a dump, there is a need for someone to do something about this situation just like the Bayou LaCroix one.

No one ever seems to be caught dumping trash in unauthorized areas.

Mardi Gras is fast approaching us with many parades.

To mention a few, Nereids in Waveland is scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 6; Diamondhead on Saturday, Feb. 12; Pass Christian on Sunday, Feb. 13; and Triton in Bay St. Louis-Waveland on Tuesday, Feb. 15.

There are many folks getting their floats ready to join in the fun.

We know many Mardi Gras Balls are in process with several already history for this season.

It seems there are more carnival balls each year, with folks really enjoying a custom unique to our area.

Many of the alumni of St. Stanislaus are preparing for the annual reunion to be held Saturday night at the Jefferson-Orleans in Metairie.

We hope to see many of our former class members, as we are one of the honor classes.

It is hard to realize how time seems to pass so fast. Where have the years gone?

In case you are wondering, it will be our 30th anniversary.

Elder LeGrand Richards

THE MORMONS

Waveland Branch
Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints

Services held

for former

missionaries leader

By PATTY BALDREE
Ward Information Director

Funeral services were conducted Friday, Jan. 14 for Elder LeGrand Richards, member of the Mormon Council of the Twelve Apostles and former visitor to Hancock County as a mission leader.

Richards served the church as president of the Southern States Mission from 1933-37.

Richards served two full-time missions and twice as mission president, covering almost 10 years. He was a branch president once, bishop three times, and stake president once.

His service as a general authority began, nearly 45 years ago in 1938 with a 14-year term of service as the church's magazine 'Ensign' in its July, 1982 issue, describes Richards as a devoted husband and the father of eight.

His wife, Ina Jane Ashton, preceded him in death in 1977. Richards died Tuesday, Jan. 11, at the home of a daughter in Salt Lake City at the age of 96. Doctors attributed his death to his age.

Richards served as the presiding bishop of the church.

In 1982 he was chosen to fill a vacancy in the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles, the position he held at the time of his death.

But with all these years of service to the church, perhaps his greatest contribution to the spreading of the gospel of Jesus Christ came in the form of this book, 'A Marvelous Work and a Wonder.'

Approximately 2.5 million copies of this work have been printed since its initial printing in 1950.

No other church book, except the Book of Mormon, has sold more copies.

The work has been translated into 18 languages with every penny in royalties donated by Richards to the missionary effort of the church.

"Those who knew him and those of us who have seen him in action hold him in high esteem as a man of honesty and faith, one fully committed to the gospel and full of gratitude to God for his blessing," said Mrs. David (Darleen) Escanti of Waveland.

During this time he had many opportunities to meet with the Saints and their neighbors in this area.

Several of these meetings were held at the church's chapel which was at that time located on Washington Road in Bay St. Louis.

"Mormons and non-Mormons alike in this area remember him as a man of great humor with a powerful yet beautiful speaking voice—his ability to deliver a sermon illustrating the beauty and divinity of the mission of the Savior and of the eternal truth of His gospel is unequalled except by very few," according to Vernon Ladner of Waveland, Waveland Ward counselor to the bishop.

Ladner said several of those who knew Richards personally have commented that he was 'first, foremost and always a missionary.'

"He would never allow himself to let an opportunity to share the gospel message pass him by," Ladner added.

David Wainwright of Waveland remembers his late father's statements to the effect that Richards was 'the greatest missionary the church had ever sent to this area.'

Regular eye examinations can greatly reduce the incidence of glaucoma, according to a recent broadcast sponsored by the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and The Prudential Insurance Company.

Dr. Robert Shaffer, director of the Glaucoma Clinic at the University of California, San Francisco, says early detection is crucial in glaucoma. Ophthalmologists can detect increased pressure in the eye, damage to the optic nerve or loss of peripheral vision through a painless screening process. These common symptoms of glaucoma may not be recognized by the patient until a great deal of vision has been lost.

"Glaucoma is a series of diseases which have intra-ocular pressure and the tendency for optic nerve damage as their common denominator," explains Dr. Shaffer. "Pressure develops within the eye when fluid drainage is blocked. The pressure on the optic nerve results in destroyed vision and gradual numbing and destruction of the nerve."

Damage to the optic nerve is permanent, increasing the importance of early detection. Dr. Shaffer concludes, "Vision is almost always maintained for the patient through medication or occasionally surgery."

BAYOU CADET FISHERMEN—Crowding the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Courthouse meeting room in Bay St. Louis Monday morning at an emergency meeting are several of some 30 Bayou Cadet Marina fishermen whose boats were either damaged or destroyed in a unusual winter storm last week which flooded low lying areas and wrecked the county facility. The supervisors declared an emergency in hopes of seeking federal government assistance. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducumb Jr.)

Emergency

ing the storm, the fishermen reported. Since dredging work must be approved by the Corps of Engineers, the supervisors agreed to send a resolution to the Governor's Office and Mississippi's Congressional delegates requesting immediate action to begin dredging.

Ferrell said the Bayou Cadet needs to be dredged to a depth of four to six feet. Currently there are areas which are only 30 inches deep.

The board also agreed to seek approval from the Governor's Office to obtain a National Guard helicopter to lift boats stranded in marsh areas back into the bayou.

Billy Bernos, owner and captain of the Delta Dawn, a 43-ton commercial fishing boat, stated his boat was one of several which were left high and dry on marsh land after the storm.

Bernos said the helicopters—sky cranes—have the capability of lifting 100-ton loads, and could be used to place all the stranded boats back in the water.

In addition to organizing repair efforts, the supervisors agreed that Hancock County should be better prepared for a similar storm in the future.

The board agreed to request four National Guard amphibious vehicles to be stationed in Hancock County.

Discussion of the storm and the effects prompted one fisherman to say, "This wouldn't have happened if we had a good harbor."

Ferrell agreed and stated boats were docked at Bayou Cadet six abreast because of the lack of space.

"The boats all broke loose tied together," Ferrell said, and stated once that happened a chain reaction started. Boats smashed into docks and adjoining boats, tearing them loose.

"They all went spinning off down through the marsh," he said.

Further discussion about building a harbor in Hancock County prompted supervisors to request the Port and Harbor Commission to form a committee to update studies of a harbor.

Ferrell was named the Fishermen's Association's representative on that committee.

The fifth maid, portraying "Parisien Memories," was dressed in blue moire and velvet accented with many layers of lace ruffles and featuring a bustle effect.

The last maid, portraying "Vagabond Melodies," was exquisite in black and red satin trimmed in sequins and tiny sparkling mirrors.

Elaborate headpieces complimented each costume.

Dukes to his majesty were dressed in full costumes including elaborate headpieces, and each duke was dressed to compliment his maid.

Dukes were Mr. Kenneth M. Wilkinson, Mr. Keith Johnson, Mr. Robert R. Kane, Mr. Gary E. Heitzman, Mr. Jerry R. Bourg, and Mr. Clarence L. Moran.

Queen Doris XVII, personifying the "Queen of Our Musical Theatre," sparkled in her gown of silver lame heavily encrusted with rhinestones.

Her mantle was of a delicate lace pattern outlined with rhinestones. Her train symbolized the American flag and was embellished with red, white, and blue sequins and yards of rhinestones.

Trainbearers to her majesty were Master Kevin Lee Bourg, Master Bryce Pendleton, Gex, Master Jonathan Ashton, Masson, and Miss Megan McDovald Uram.

King Nereus XVII, Mr. Thomas W. Kidd Sr., was regally costumed in silver lame accented with designs of rhinestones. His train featured a design of stars and stripes.

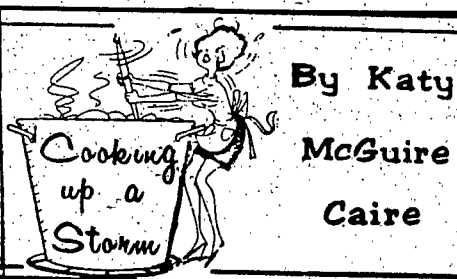

Mr. Kidd is a Waveland resident and is associated with Auderod Dental Supply of New Orleans, and also with the Lil Ray's chain of restaurants.

Following the presentation and the Grand March of the Royal Court, a krewe group portraying World War I soldiers marched off to war to the tune of "Over There."

After a blackout scene and sounds of war, the soldiers were greeted back home by the cheers of the crowd and the Keesler Band and Flag Corps.

The finale featured a "curtain call" by the flag-waving krewe members and patriotic marches by the Keesler groups.

Master of ceremonies was Mr. Norris Fitzmorris of New Orleans. The Harry Morrel Orchestra provided the music.

Few meats are more flavorful than the old-fashioned rather than boiled, of course, "Beef Bouilli" or plain boiled then served up with beef, properly simmered horseradish sauce. It even tastes better the next day.

In many countries and cities of Europe, boiled beef is considered a delicacy, especially in Vienna, which is as famous for its boiled beef as for its lavish pastries and tortes.

A variety of cuts may be used for boiled beef—such as brisket, short ribs, bottom round or rump, with a four or six pound piece more than ample for six hearty diners, with plenty left over for hash or what have you.

I prefer the brisket, and like to serve it "country French" style, with whole onions and potatoes and carrots which

I've cooked along with the meat during the last hour of cooking time. Here's

BEEF BOUILLI
4 to 6 lb. brisket or other beef

Bay leaf
Several sprigs parsley
Celery leaves
1 onion, sliced
Generous dashes pepper,
Tabasco
Salt, optional
Potatoes, carrots, onions, peeled, whole or sliced, as you prefer.

Place the meat, barely covered with hot water, in a large, heavy pot, add seasonings, cover and simmer for three or four hours or until tender . . . remember, you never let "boiled beef" reach the boiling point—just let it simmer happily below the boiling point till tender enough to cut, but not mushy or stringy.

And, an hour or perhaps a bit more, before the meat is done, you may add the vegetables. If you want to serve this dish cold, just let it cook in the broth, then place on a plate or platter, weight it down with another platter or plate, to press the meat into form so that it will slice better.

With this, hot or cold, I like to serve horseradish sauce of one sort or another. Sometimes I simply stir a fourth cup of horseradish into a cup of whipped cream or sour cream. At other times I add a tablespoon of the horseradish and one of lemon juice to a cup of cream sauce. And sometimes I just slather on the horseradish "as is."

The leftovers make great hash or a delicious soup meat salad or what have you.

HAZARDOUS WASTE DISPOSAL

The voices were all soft-spoken and solicitous, and the demeanor of those seated around the conference room in the state's Capitol last week easily might have been mistaken for the courteous decorum of a church meeting.

But strangely enough, the topic was hazardous waste disposal and the question in point by a Senate subcommittee session on public health and welfare chaired by Senator Bob Montgomery representing Holmes, Madison and Yazoo counties was whether to amend a senate bill which is proposed to govern possible hazardous waste facilities in the state.

The proposed measure—Senate Bill 2419—would, if passed, amend the law to prohibit the construction of any hazardous waste treatment or disposal facility or site without the approval of the board of supervisors or municipal governing body of the county or municipality wherein such facility would be located.

A small delegation of seven property owners from Yazoo county sat listening to proceedings in chairs ringing the conference room. This writer stood, leaning against a staid old olive drab filing cabinet since all seats in the room were taken.

The quiet, almost impassive voices belied the emotional nature of the discussion. Typical southern grace and courtesy cloaked the discussion. It was almost necessary to pinch oneself to realize that the topic was one that has stirred almost everyone to very clearcut opinions.

The chairman recognized each who had a statement to make.

The citizens of Yazoo county had a yet dark-haired male advocate who suggested that the measure should be amended, expanding clearance procedures for a hazardous waste facility to include a public referendum rather than leaving a matter of such concern up to local politicians.

The author of the bill,

Senator Algie Davis of Kemper, Lauderdale and Noxubee counties, responded essentially that he found no fault with the proposal for a referendum before such projects are approved, if they are. And Senator Ollie Mohamed of Humphreys, Madison and Yazoo counties concurred.

But Col. Charles Blaylock, director of the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources, suggested calmly that (1) local people if given a say-so would never approve any waste site near them, and (2) technical inputs into the decision-making process should be more significant than the feelings and emotions of the people.

Yet another spokesman, speaking for manufacturers, suggested that waste mountains might easily be made of waste molehills—that a lot of industrial waste is not all that bad and must be disposed of economically to preserve a favorable business environment for the state. He asked that the subcommittee not hasten to a decision.

Lastly, a representative of the Farm Bureau organization, cited Farm Bureau's 1983 policy as clearly asking for voter referendums to be involved in the decision-making process.

And so it went—as the subcommittee switched gears and went on to other business and those representing various points of view over hazardous waste jurisdiction left the room to continue low voiced conversations in the hallway leading to second floor Senate chambers.

So the Senate Committee on Public Health and Welfare still has before it the problem of who in Mississippi says whether or not to allow hazardous waste treatment or dumping facilities.

Industries still have before them what to do with their mostly chemical wastes since no one wants them.

And landowners and other citizens still have to wait to see whether they or whoever else will make the decisions concerning getting rid of the waste that no one wants—and many fear—in Mississippi.

Malone given 11 years in Guilbeau robbery trial

By BRENT MACEY
Frank T. Malone, 39, was convicted of armed robbery in Hancock County Circuit Court Tuesday and was sentenced by Circuit Court Judge Ruble Griffin to 11 years in the Mississippi State Penitentiary in Parchman.

Griffin ordered Malone to serve 10 of those years before being considered for parole.

Malone was accused of helping to plot the robbery of Virginia Guilbeau Jan. 16, 1982 which resulted in Guilbeau being robbed of several diamond rings, money and a diamond studded watch.

Malone is the second person convicted of armed robbery in connection with that case this term of circuit court.

Last week, James Conley, accused of masterminding the robbery, was convicted of the same charge and was also sentenced to serve 11 years in jail.

District Attorney Albert Necase and Assistant District Attorney Scherry LeSueur attempted to prove Malone introduced Guilbeau's assailant, Marilyn Page, into the robbery.

Page admitted she waited outside Guilbeau's house the night of the robbery and struck Guilbeau from behind with a blackjack before demanding the jewelry.

Page, who also testified about her role in the robbery at the Conley trial, pled guilty to armed robbery Wednesday.

She was sentenced to three years in the State Penitentiary in Parchman.

In addition to introducing Page to several other principals in the robbery, the prosecuting attorneys attempted to prove that Malone helped break the diamonds from their settings after the robbery. They claimed Malone also paid Page $500 for her role in the robbery.

Malone, who was represented by Bay St. Louis Attorney Nicholas (Mac) Haas, claimed he knew nothing about any plans to rob Guilbeau.

He admitted he was present when the diamonds were brought to his house after the robbery. However, he said he never asked if they had been stolen and was unaware that they were.

The jury deliberated for less than one hour before returning with a guilty verdict.

In other action in Circuit Court this week:

Nelson Croasdale was sentenced to five years in the Mississippi State Penitentiary in Parchman after he pled guilty to simple robbery of the Amoco Station US-90 in Waveland June 5, 1981.

Croasdale had pled guilty to armed robbery last July in connection with that incident along with Randall G. Goodick, 21, and Leo Paul Cook, 21.

Croasdale later withdrew his plea.

Cook and Goodick are awaiting a presentence report before being sentenced.

Brian Hall, 17, pled guilty to stabbing his stepfather, Wesley Edelen, several times in the Reflections Lounge on US-99 in April 2, 1982.

He was sentenced to serve four years in the State Penitentiary in Parchman, the first term of the sentence to be served in Oakley Training School until such time that authorities determine he is rehabilitated.

Jimmy Oakes was convicted of drug possession after having been arrested and charged March 28, 1981.

He was tried as a habitual offender and was sentenced to three years in the State Penitentiary with no parole and was fined $30,000.

Hancock's jobless rate decreases

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Hancock County's unemployment decreased slightly based on a current Mississippi Employment Service report.

The report lists a 9.5 percent December jobless figure which is six-tenths of a percentage point lower than the previous month's rate.

National and state jobless rates are both higher than the countywide figure.

The lower rate represents 50 more people employed in spite of the total county civilian labor force gaining that number of workers in December.

Hancock's labor force for the month is listed at 9,400 with 890 of those out of work.

Monthly 1982 government statistics show Hancock experiencing its highest jobless rate of 10.3 percent in July.

At that time, 990 of the county's 9,650 workers were unemployed.

July also marked the beginning of the second half of 1982 in which the jobless rate averages at 9.9 percent.

Unemployment rates for the first six months of 1983 average 7.2 percent.

Mississippi's unemployment rate dropped to 11.4 percent in December, a decrease of five-tenths of one percentage point compared to November's rate, says O. H. Simmons, Mississippi Employment Security Commission executive director.

The unemployment rate in Dec. 1981 is listed at 9 percent.

The 11.4 percent figure is higher than the 10.5 percent national December rate. Commission figures show 118,400 unemployed and 920,100 employed out of a statewide civilian labor force of 1,038,500.

Initial unemployment insurance claims total 34,426 for that period, Simmons reports.

Some 60 of the state's 82 counties report unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher in December. With three counties listing rates higher than 20 percent.

Counties with the highest unemployment rates in December are Winston with 22.6 percent, Tate with 20.5 percent, and Nodaway with 20.2 percent, Simmons states.

Issaquena, Oktibbeha, and Rankin Counties have the lowest rates in December with 5.6, 6, and 6.7 percent respectively.

Some 26 counties show an increase in rates, while 53 reported decreases. The unemployment rate in three counties was unchanged, Simmons adds.

He said the controversial R-3 area does not definitely indicate if its southern boundary is 300 feet or 500 feet inland from the beachfront.

Gex also reported recently annexed areas have not yet been classified and zoning changes have not been properly added to the official map.

Newly annexed areas are automatically classified as R-1, but the recently annexed Buccaneer State Park is not a residential area and needs a special classification, he revealed.

The attorney and Barbara Rappold, city secretary, zoning official and an alderman, reported the city's zoning map hanging in a room adjacent to her City Hall office is different from the minute book map.

Rappold pointed out the R-3 area in the minute book differs from the wall map which she has been utilizing as a zoning classification guide.

Gex advised the board could not arbitrarily re-zone an area of the city unless a comprehensive plan has been developed and the proposed change conforms with present land use.

"You have to show a reason or the logic why this area shouldn't be R-3," he said regarding the area in question.

The hearing scheduled at 4:45 p.m. began at 4:55 p.m. after the commissioners, Gex and Rappold exited an adjacent room after an apparent heated discussion.

Ed Rowley, who owns property at 715 North Beach Boulevard, reported he circulated the petition because he was "disturbed by condominiums and high-rise apartments could be built there" and the zoning should be changed to R-1.

His comments drew applause from some audience members.

Ballard Argus of Bay St. Louis, representing the Bay-Waveland Property Owners Association, said the organization supported the zoning change because it would be the best long-term decision for the city.

"You can look at communities all over the Coast and many places have been destroyed with high-rises on the beachfront," he stated.

Mrs. Neal Jeffrey, a beachfront resident, and Elizabeth Miller supported the change.

But Felix de la Housseye, a beachfront property owner, endorsed the R-3 classification and said it enhances property value.

Hernandez heatedly stated, "It's our right to keep the property as R-3. We bought it that way and don't feel anybody should take it away."

Hymel said he purchased beachfront property in 1960 as R-3 property and spent $50,000 for plans for eight time-sharing condominiums which were outlawed by the aldermen and the development was stopped.

C.C. McDonald, Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission president and a contractor, said he represented the entire McDonald family which owned property in the R-3 area and objected to the zoning change.

He said several signatures from area property owners were not included in the petition.

Robert Genin, a Bay St. Louis attorney also representing the McDonalds, said most zoning change requests ask for less stringent classifications and questioned the legality of one property owner imposing a zoning change on another without consent.

Gex added there are no Mississippi cases recorded which call for notification of property all owners involved in a zoning change.

State Bar elects officers

Laurel attorney Ernest Graves was recently elected first vice president and president-elect of the Mississippi State Bar in its recent elections.

Forty-four percent of the Bar membership participated in the election.

Jackson attorney Stephen W. Rosenblatt was elected first vice-president and president-elect of the Young Lawyers Section of the Bar, and Oxford attorney Deborah H. Bell was elected YLS secretary.

Elected to the Board of Commissioners, the governing body of the Mississippi State Bar, were S. T. Rayburn of Oxford; Frank O. Crosthwait Jr. of Indianola; Alfred S. Livingston of Cleveland; Jon Mark Weathers of Hattiesburg and Fielding L. Wright Jr. of Pascagoula.

Commissioners are elected from each Circuit Court District and serve three-year terms beginning June, 1983.

Elected to the Board of Directors, the supervisory board for the Young Lawyers Section of the Bar, were Fincher G. Bobo of Shelby; Thomas E. Vaughan of Gulfport; H. James Davidson Jr. of Columbus; Warren L. Holmes of McComb; Peyton D. Prosperi and Powell G. Ogletree Jr., both of Jackson.

DOWN HOME

By Darlene Underwood

Hancock County Extension

I have been rather remiss in submitting my column lately, now that little Sarah has come to live with us and time is at a premium — but I promise to do better.

Below is my February schedule of classes. Please take a moment to mark your calendar for the ones you are interested in attending.

So many times people have called my office to say they forgot about a program and want to know when it will be offered again.

A lot of my programs are taught by guest lecturers and cannot be scheduled again, so don't miss the first, and quite possibly the last, opportunity, because of forgetfulness.

MAINTAINING LANDSCAPE

For those of you who would like to know how to properly maintain the lawn and shrubs you already have "in place," this is the class for you.

John Davis, area horticulturist, will present this program on Tuesday, Feb. 1, 1:30 p.m. in the Agriculture Building Auditorium, 405 N. Main Avenue, Bay St. Louis. The class will be repeated at 6:30 p.m. for those unable to attend during the day.

These programs should be of special interest to those who have attended the "Planning the Home Landscape" series.

taught by Mr. Davis in previous years.

WEIGHT OFF, WISELY

This twelve-week series started in January and will continue through March. If you would like to join our group, come by 405 N. Main Avenue, Bay St. Louis on Mondays, 1:30 p.m.

Each class will consist of (1) "Weighting-In," (2) a sharing time for the participants, (3) a lesson on nutrition, behavior modification or fashion, and (4) exercise. Those wishing to exercise must have a note from their doctor certifying they are physically able to exercise — no exceptions.

HOME VEGETABLE GARDEN

John Davis, area extension horticulturist, will be conducting this class on Wednesday, Feb. 9, 9:30 a.m. in the Crawford Room, Bay St. Louis Library.

The program will cover basic information on planning and planting your spring vegetable garden as well as insect control.

The class will be presented so experienced as well as beginning gardeners will profit by attending. John always does an excellent job, so don't miss this opportunity to learn the latest gardening techniques.

For those of you who plan to grow enough to preserve for next winter, I will discuss food preservation materials available from our office.

CANDLEWICKING EMBROIDERY

Candlewicking is a simple Colonial embroidery which is enjoying a tremendous revival right now. This class will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 16, 10 a.m. in the Crawford Room, Bay St. Louis Library. Class size will be limited so pre-register now by calling 467-5456.

A kit of instructions and material for an introductory project will be about $1.25, to be collected at the workshop. You will need to bring a small 3 or 4 inch embroidery hoop, scissors for cutting thread, and a washable fabric marking pen if you have one.

Don't forget — pre-register early!

BEEF COOKOFF CONTEST

This is a chance for all you great Hancock County cooks to show off your talents. The Mississippi Beef Cook-Off is sponsored by the Mississippi Cowbells.

Recipes must be sent to Mrs. Sally Lynn, Rt. 3, Box 224-C, Ellisville, Miss. 39437 by April 1, 1983.

There are some rules governing the judging of the recipes. If you would like more information contact me at 467-5456 for details.

Informational program needed to stem flow of misinformation about state to World's Fair visitors

During a six month period in 1984, an estimated 1.4 million new tourists will travel through Mississippi enroute to the World's Fair in New Orleans.

With a full-scale tourism marketing program, total economic impact could approach $268 million for the state, according to findings in an economic impact study received by the Mississippi World's Fair Council and state Department of Economic Development in December.

Prepared by Gulf South Research Institute in Baton Rouge, the study says the Fair "presents a tremendous opportunity for both immediate and long lasting economic benefits."

In analyzing attendance projections, GSRI estimates that two million people will be induced to visit New Orleans specifically for the Fair.

Approximately 72 percent, or 1.4 million, will use Mississippi highways to get there.

GSRI officials urged that Mississippi should have properly planned, well-staged exhibit on the fair site to attract those visitors without definite post-Fair plans and those who have allotted more time and money to see the Fair than they need.

With an informative, attractive exhibit, Mississippi can "enhance its potential for tourism" in the future, the study says.

In November the World's Fair Council secured 20,000 square feet of space in the Fair's Exhibition Center for a Mississippi exhibit.

Based on previous exhibitions, the financial success of any world's fair depends on the attraction of large numbers of middle-income people, according to the report.

Older couples, families, and young, two-income couples were the mainstay of the 1982 Knoxville World's Fair.

The same three groups will constitute the bulk of visitors in 1984, using the Fair as their major vacation trip and spending as much or more time and money on their way to and from the Fair as at the Fair itself.

The report states that Mississippi should focus on those tourist resources which offer families and couples recreational opportunities that will not be available in New Orleans.

The study says that with a "maintenance-level" advertising program, an 18 percent increase over the normal travel-related expenditures would be experienced in 1984 for a total economic impact of $192 million.

However, GSRI states that an effective, vigorous marketing effort could mean an additional seven percent, or $73.6 million, for Mississippi.

Regardless of the calculated return on a marketing effort, some basic marketing and informational program is needed in order to prevent the circulation of "misinformation" about Mississippi that might inhibit attainment of the previously identified benefits," the report states.

GSRI was commissioned to conduct the study by the World's Fair Council in August. According to George Williams, Tourism Director, Mississippi Department of Economic Development, the study "enables us to know what the economic benefits for Mississippi could be. We're using it as a basis for our entire marketing plan," he stated.

"We're very excited about what the World's Fair will do for the state," he said. "We're expecting these fairgoers who experience Mississippi in 1984 to be repeat visitors and to generate business for us long after the Fair is over."

Treutel reports to Peoples Federal S&LA stockholders

The annual stockholders meeting of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association was held last week at the Bay St. Louis office on Court Street.

David Treutel, president, issued the following report:

"Last year was an especially important one for the Savings and Loan business and a year in which Peoples Federal Savings successfully met intensified challenges and began a major transition into the type of financial institution that will be able to serve our community's financial needs despite new types of competition and some continuing uncertainty in the national economy.

"The first half of the year was marked by high interest rates, a sluggish economy and continued deregulation of the financial services business.

"By late summer, however, interest rates began to decline setting the stage for what many economists hoped would be the beginning of a recovery. The rise of inflation to double-digit figures was reversed as the inflation rate, measured by the Consumer Price Index, steadied at around a six percent annual rate, down from over twelve percent in 1980.

"Mortgage interest rates began a slow but steady decline in late 1982 and hopefully will provide the catalyst for a recovery from the longest and deepest housing recession since the 1930s.

"We at Peoples Federal Savings have several reasons for optimism and pride; first, 1982 was the most profitable year in the history of the Association exceeding one percent return on average assets. Savings, too increased more than fifteen percent and we are most pleased to see our reserves and surplus increased by a record seventeen percent. Also, our Association has finalized plans for an addition to our main office building, which will more than double our existing space. This we feel will add to your convenience and our efficiency.

St. Stanislaus withdraws from Deep South Conference

By BRENT MACEY
St. Stanislaus High School submitted a formal notice this week to withdraw from the Deep South Conference, a conference established two years ago which includes eight high school teams in District VIII.

Of those eight teams, St. Stanislaus is the only team classified as a Class AA team. All other teams in the conference are Class A teams.

That difference played a major role in St. Stanislaus' decision to withdraw from the conference.

A letter, submitted to the Deep South Conference president by Brother Louis Joseph, athletic director at St. Stanislaus, states, "We feel that the future of the Single A teams in the District VIII will continue to focus on the need to get the best possible system available to determine the Single A Championship."

Louis speculates that to achieve this goal the Single A teams will eventually evolve into a system similar to the collegiate South Eastern Conference—where the number of teams in the conference require game schedules to alternate on a yearly basis.

As an example, Georgia and Alabama do not play each other every year since the number of teams in the conference prohibit that occurrence on a yearly basis.

Brother Louis noted Friday that a vote was taken two weeks ago to establish a high school system similar to the collegiate South Eastern Conference.

The system would have combined some 12 Single A teams currently competing in two different conferences—the Deep South Conference and the Apache Conference.

A 75 vote by Single A coaches in District VIII narrowly defeated changing to that new system.

situation whereas at some other given time, we could find our school with a football team with no schedule."

"I could see the writing on the wall," he said about the upcoming change Tuesday.

According to Brother Louis, the method used to determine last year's Deep South Conference championship was a major reason why coaches have begun to consider combining Single A teams in the Apache and Deep South Conferences.

At the end of last year's season, three high school teams were tied for the championship of the Deep South Conference.

A coin toss decided who would go on to play the winner of the Apache Conference for a game to determine the District Champion.

"No coach wants to decide a championship with the flip of a coin," Brother Louis said about the coaches' reactions to that toss.

"Flipping a nickel really isn't the best method, especially after a full season and three months of play," he said.

For that reason he speculates the system will be changed, possibly within two years if not sooner.

Although St. Stanislaus will not be included in the Deep South Conference next year, the school's football schedule will remain similar to last year's.

Games played last year will remain the same with the exception of games against Pearl River Central and Stone County—two Deep South Conference teams.

A game against St. John will replace last year's St. Stanislaus, Pearl River Central match-up. A replacement for the Stone County game has not yet been determined, Brother Louis said.

In the letter, Louis states that he believes St. Stanislaus will continue to be classified as a AA team.

That classification is based on enrollment. Schools with more than 450 students are automatically classified AA.

Although St. Stanislaus enrolls between 260 to 270 students, all those students are boys. As a result, the enrollment is doubled so the school's population is theoretically equalized with schools which enroll both boys and girls.

Wind of ref's whistle blows PRJC off court

With 7:52 remaining the Pearl River Junior College Lady Wildcats basketball game, forfeited both that game and the ensuing men's contest against Co-Lin when a technical foul was levied against PRJC because of a school official who was sitting in the stands.

PRJC Coach Billy Holmes took his women's team off the floor following the call imposed by official Houston Vaughn.

When Holmes refused to return the Lady Wildcats to play within 60 seconds, the game was forfeited.

The Co-Lin women, undefeated in the South Division, had taken a 53-52 lead when the technical was levied.

Holmes disagreed with the call because he thought it was unfair to his team and the school.

"The official would not listen to reason at all," Coach Holmes said. "I tried to explain to him that according to the rule book he had made a mistake."

The incident occurred when Lady Wildcat Carmen Reed was called for a foul underneath the PRJC goal. The foul allowed the Co-Lin Lady Wolves a one and one opportunity. While the two teams were walking to the Co-Lin goal, the technical was called.

The audio of a video tape of the game registered a comment by Miller Hammill, Dean of Student Affairs, saying to the referee just prior to the technical foul, "How can you call holding when she was inside."

School officials speculate that this comment triggered the call.

Louis stated he feared a successful vote would have changed the game schedules in the Deep South Conference to include only games with Class A teams.

"If it had been passed St. Stanislaus would have been almost without a schedule next year," Brother Louis said.

In the letter he writes, "We feel it is imperative to make the decision to withdraw at this time. Not to do so could very possibly place us in the of public affairs at PRJC, said he has since talked with the president of the Mississippi Junior College Officials Association about the call.

"He (the president) said the official would be reprimanded...he said the official was definitely in the wrong," Stanford said.

Stanford was uncertain to what extent the official would be reprimanded. He noted PRJC is expecting to receive a letter in the near future from the president of the Mississippi Junior College Officials concerning that reprimand.

According to Stanford, an incident concerning Vaughn's officiating, a PRJC - Co-Lin game last year, may have contributed to the incident this year.

In last year's game, at which Vaughn also officiated, PRJC was ahead 60-58 in the final seconds of the ball game, Stanford said.

A Co-Lin player shot from outside the top of the key and made the basket to tie the score.

Vaughn, who was standing under the basket, ruled the Co-Lin player had been fouled during the play. A one and one free throw opportunity for the Co-Lin player was successful and Co-Lin won the game as a result.

Stanford said the call made by Vaughn last year, was a call most PRJC fans didn't agree with.

"They (the fans) felt he was too far away when he made the call."

As a result of the problem last year, Stanford said PRJC requested Vaughn not be sent back to officiate at the college.

"But it just so happened that he came down for the same ball game this year."

In reference to the game this week, Coach Holmes said he thought he did the best thing when he stopped play.

"Vaughn created the unfortunate situation and I really did not believe he could adequately continue without creating more serious incidents," Holmes said.

"He (Vaughn) was responsible for the problem we had."

Personally, I think it had to revert back to some type of personality conflict which had nothing to do with the players or coaches of either team," Holmes said.

"Regardless of what extent the fan played in the problem, Vaughn did not handle the situation correctly. It was unfair to the players and coaches of both Pearl River and Co-Lin," Holmes said.

Stanford agreed that Coach Holmes made the right decision when he stopped play.

"It was getting pretty rough," he said about the fans' reaction to Vaughn's call.

Co-Lin coach Gwen Young said after the game, "I have no comment. I was concentrating on the game. I really did not hear anything."

Pearl River, who defeated the Lady Wolves in the finals of the South Division Tournament last year at the Co-Lin campus, erased a nine point deficit in the first half to take a 39-37 lead at intermission. The lead switched hands several times during the last half with the game knotted at 49 with 11:38 remaining.

Leading 53-52 when the commotion began, the Co-Lin girls made four straight free throws to make the count 57-52. That's when the game ended.

Darlene Davis had scored 16, Sharon Williams 12 and Jackie Ridgway and Carmen Reed netted eight each when the game stopped. Gail Burnell had 20 for Co-Lin and Bridget Davis 16.

Co-Lin had made 15 of 25 free throw attempts. The Lady Wildcats had connected on 10 of 16.

"I feel bad for my girls," Holmes said. "They had worked hard to prepare for the game. They were playing their hearts out. I hate what happened. It's not fair to them, I did what I thought I had to do at the time," Holmes said.

The forfeits put the Lady Wildcats at 10-5 overall and the Wildcats are 6-9. PRJC will travel to Co-Lin Feb. 7 for their final regular season game of the year.

Deep South Conference Tourney in full swing at Hancock

By BRENT MACEY
The first round of the Deep South Conference Basketball Tournament began Wednesday night at the Hancock North Central Gymnasium.

Stone County boys and girls are ranked number one in the tournament with the Bay High School boys and girls ranked second.

Results of the tournament, which concludes Saturday, will be included in Sunday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo.

Most of the teams playing in this week's tournament competed in last week's Bay High Invitational Tournament.

In that tournament, the Bay High girls lost to Piquette in finals action Saturday 82-54.

In the boys tournament, Long Beach captured the championship.

after defeating St. Martin 52-49. Bay High School and Pass Christian were eliminated in the semi-final action.

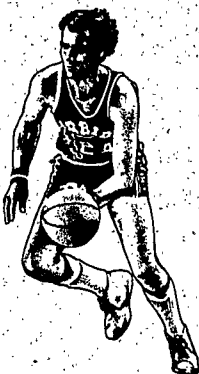

On Monday this week, the Bay High Tigers and Tigerettes defeated Pass Christian

High School 62-52 and 54-39 respectively.

Kenneth Cline led the Tigers with 16 points while T.J. Farve added 13 points and Milas Harvey totalled 12.

In girls action, Terri Rhodes led the Tigerettes with 14 points, followed by Dina Reniot with 13 points and Michelle Dorsey with 11.

PRJC topples Utica, 53-51

Pearl River College's basketball Wildcats put the finishing touch to a very nice homecoming of the 1987 and '88 Wildcat teams Saturday night.

Performing before the PRC championship team of 1988, the '88 Wildcats used a very deliberate offense to tag Utica

Junior College with a 53-51 South Division setback.

It was nice for the returning Wildcat stars. It was nice for the present day 'Cats who avenged an earlier 22 point loss to the same towering Utica bunch.

It is no secret that Billy Holmes, the 'Cats head coach, has had his problems this season. First, three players were dismissed early on for disciplinary reasons and then three more starters failed to remain eligible for the Spring semester.

Holmes and assistant, Ned Bades, have been working hard to have their team execute correctly during the remaining season.

"I'm pleased," Holmes said. "The game we played against Utica on Saturday could not have been played much better. It was really a thing of beauty. It's the type basketball we must play the rest of the year."

The Wildcats defeated Southwest easily last week and then forfeited a game against the Co-Lin Wolves when Holmes called it off after an incident with an official during the Lady Wildcat contest.

The Wildcats got into a run and gun type contest last week at Utica, and they learned their lesson. The Bulldogs have a front line which consists of 6-10 Alton Lee Gipson, 6-8 Ervin Dillon and 6-7 Jerry Barnes. Out front are two sharp shooting guards.

"We slowed things down and did not make many turnovers," Holmes said.

Sophomore Randy Smith of Petal, the lone experienced starter for the 'Cats, had a game high 20 points.

Freshman Scott Vaughn, a Piquette native who tallied 25 against Southwest earlier in the week, pumped in 12.

Utica's Gipson was held to 17 and Dillon 15.

The Wildcats were scheduled to be on the road this week with contests against rivals Jones on Tuesday and Gulf Coast tonight.

The Wildcats will return home for the Hinds' Eagles Monday, January 31.

Lady 'Cats downed 91-88, by Utica

A poor shooting night at the free throw line was the downfall of the Pearl River College Lady Wildcats against the once-beaten Utica Lady Bulldogs Saturday night.

The PRC ladies went to the charity line 42 times but connected on only 22 as the Utica girls picked up a 91-88 South Division victory.

Utica led 44-38 at intermission but the Lady 'Cats actually pulled ahead in the second half for a short time.

"We could have won that game," Holmes said. "We were just not sharp in some areas." The loss dropped the PRC girls record to 10-5 tonight.

overall.

The big gun for the Lady Wildcats was freshman Carmen Reed on New Orleans. Reed shot a season high 36 points. Another New Orleans freshman, Darlene Davis, hit for 30 and Sharon Williams, one of only two sophomores on the team, connected for 18.

Reed made 15 field goals and six of eleven from the line. Reed is averaging better than 20 points per game.

The Lady Wildcats were scheduled to travel to Jones on Tuesday and Gulf Coast tonight.

Bass Association tournaments set

The second annual Coors - Mississippi Bass Association Tournament finals are slated for Oct. 15 and 16.

This year's format will be like last year's with six tournaments to qualify the top 24 fishermen who will participate in October.

The tournaments are limited to 350 fishermen each who must be a member of the MBA.

Membership dues are $15 a year; tournament fees are $50 for each tournament.

The tournament schedule includes Ross Barnett Reservoir, March 18; End Lake, Apr. 24; Grenada Lake, May 22; Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway and Columbus Pool, June 28; Sardis Lake, July 24; Ferguson Lake, August 28; and The Coors MBA Classic, Oct. 15 and 16.

With site to be announced. In addition to cash prizes for the classic fishermen, the Adolph Coors Company and its Mississippi distributors will provide $5,000 cash as additional prize money for the batteries.

A Skeeter boat, trailer and Mercury 150 horsepower motor will be awarded at the 1983 MBA Classic to the entrant with the most points from the first six tournaments.

First prize in the 1983 Classic will be a fully rigged Ranger 350-V Bass Boat, Rangertrailer, Johnson 150 horsepower motor, RAM trolling motor, Lowrance depth finders, Brelmar anchor system and Interstate batteries.

Second prize is a Performance Gambler Bass Boat, trailer and RAM trolling motor.

Third prize is a 15 foot Polarcraft aluminum Bass Boat and trailer.

Fourth prize is two round-trip tickets by American Airlines.

vice-chairman of the board; Carl Shouse, executive vice-president of corporate services; Alesia Smith, Hancock County Miss Hospitality who cuts ribbon; W. H. Holman Jr., chairman of the board; Ralph Humphreys, director of retail operations; and Bill Beatty, executive vice-president and chief operating officer. Political, corporate officials attend Jitney grand opening

The Bay St. Louis Jitney-Jungle formally opened at 8 a.m. Monday when Hancock County Miss Hospitality Alesia Smith cut a ribbon at grand opening ceremonies.

The new store, located in the MarkTown Shopping Center at the junction of US-90 and Dunbar Avenue, will create 60 new jobs in the Bay St. Louis area, store officials said.

A 30,000-square foot facility, and newest Jitney-Jungle in the state, the Bay St. Louis store is a part of the Jackson-based Jitney-Jungle Stores of America chain which extends throughout Mississippi and northern Florida.

"We are happy to be located in the Bay St. Louis area and to be joining its fast growing business community," commented W. H. Holman Jr., president of Jitney-Jungle Stores of America, Inc.

"We are looking forward to serving the Bay St. Louis area residents with one of the most modern and complete supermarkets in the area," he added.

The new Jitney-Jungle stocks name-brand items along with the company's own brands of Top Fresh, and Food Club.

The Bay St. Louis Jitney-Jungle features a large "No-Frills" or "generic" section. Over 200 products labeled in plain black and white are offered.

To compliment these items, the store features more than 250 gourmet food items merchandise throughout the store.

Shoppers with limited time for cooking will find a large selection of over 800 frozen food and dairy items.

Nancy Centerbar is manager of the general merchandise department.

This product category includes cosmetics, automotive supplies, greeting cards, paperback books, magazines, school supplies, party hose, pet supplies and camera film.

Additionally, a vitamin section displays 172 varieties.

Institutional sized cans of merchandise as well as 25 to 50-pound bags of dog food complete the dry grocery department.

The store features modern decor, including vivid designs and graphics highlighting each department. Ceiling fans above the checkstands rotate throughout the day.

The checkout area includes nine checkstands and one express lane equipped with a computerized Post-italker Scanning system.

Since a computer in the store keeps up with prices, cashiers don't have to. Therefore, Jitney-Jungle does not mark most items. Prices are printed on the shelf labels below the products instead.

"When we don't mark prices, we can stock our shelves much faster," commented store manager Randall Creel. "We save labor cost and pass the savings on to our customers."

A money-saving "Warehouse" section in the meat market features large packages of beef, pork and poultry at a discount.

Delaine Beach will serve as market manager. A Gulfport resident, Beach brings with him a total of 28 years market experience.

The produce department features innovative Y-shaped display tables. A variety of unusual produce items used for gourmet dishes, including items to make Oriental dishes from scratch are also included in the produce department, as well as a self-service dispenser for natural snacks.

Emile Smith, a Bay St. Louis native, will serve as produce manager. With more than ten years of experience in the food industry, Smith pledges to provide only the freshest fruits and vegetables to customers.

Randall Creel, a Biloxi native who will manage the new store, began with Jitney-Jungle in 1978 and has served in various management positions for five years.

Serving as co-managers for the store are Jerry Tant, Ken Ramsey and Larry Joffrion. Tant now resides in Bay St. Louis. Ramsey is originally from Ocean Springs and now lives in Bay St. Louis. Joffrion, a native of Gulfport, now resides in Bay St. Louis.

A floral shop features fresh-cut flowers, potted blooming plants and assorted foliage plants available in custom decorated containers.

Floral designer Regina Necaise of Waveland is manager of this section.

Jitney's full service delicatessen and bakery offer home-style, take out meals, fried chicken, salads, specialty cold cuts and sandwiches, freshly baked pastries and pies.

Birthday and wedding cakes can be decorated on the spot by the store's cake decorator, Jean Foster will be the deli manager. She and her family live in Long Beach.

Local officials present for the opening include Mayor Larry Bennett; Councilmen Sheldon Seuzeneau, Harry Farve, Wilmer Seymour, James Thrifflay, and Gene

Taylor; Dolph Kellar of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors; Bay St. Louis Chief of Police Douglas Williams; vice-president of Hancock Bank, Russell W. Chapman; Sheriff Ronnie A. Peterson; Chamber of Commerce president L. J. Breau; Pastor of the Bay St. Louis

First Baptist Church, Rev. Nathan Barber; and Hancock County's Miss Hospitality, Alesia Smith.

Joining local officials in the opening ceremonies of the company's 51st store were W. H. Holman Jr., chairman of the board of Jitney-Jungle Stores of America; W. B. McCarty Jr., vice-chairman of the board; Bill Beatty, executive vice-president and chief operating officer; Vernon Guynes, executive vice-president, corporate training and development; and Carl Shouse, executive vice-president of corporate services.

Also, Ralph Humphreys, director of retail operations; A. L. Benton Jr., vice-president of human resources; Bishop Wallace, director of merchandising; Frank Gable, director of general merchandise; Clyde Staley, director of real estate and engineering services; Tommy Moss, associate merchandise; for Jitney-Jungle Stores; and Harold Evans, district supervisor.

Dangers of Excess Weight

Do I weigh too much? Does excess weight increase my risk of developing a disease? These questions are particularly pertinent now because many Americans have stepped on the bathroom scales and watched them register a new high, the price of scrumptious meals consumed during the holiday season.

Most people attain their full height and ideal weight between age 18 and 21. Weight varies according to body build, age, and other factors. Most of all, weight varies according to caloric intake of foods. Many calories consumed and few calories "burned" equals an excess deposited as fat.

The American Heart Association's Nutrition Committee, under chairman Scott M. Grundy, M.D., Ph.D., is constantly surveying the scientific literature to come up with recommendations for the public. Dr. Grundy, director of the Center for Human Nutrition at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, points out that AHA's basic recommendation about weight is that Americans should consume "a caloric intake adjusted to achieve and maintain ideal body weight."

Being overweight can contribute to a number of diseases. It may increase the severity of existing heart disease because it makes the heart work harder and pump more blood. Dr. Grundy says, "Excess weight can also worsen heart pain and increase the chances of damage to the heart muscle. It can drive up your blood pressure and increase the level of cholesterol and other fats circulating in your blood, he adds.

Obesity may trigger diabetes in adults with a defect in their ability to metabolize sugar, Dr. Grundy continues. "Diabetics have an increased risk of cardiovascular disease. Too much weight also promotes the degeneration of weight-bearing joints, accentuates back pain, aggravates diseases of the veins, and often has adverse psychological effects," Dr. Grundy says.

Help your heart! Maintain an ideal weight for your body build and height by following a prudent diet that includes fresh fruits and vegetables, carbohydrates, and lean cuts of meat, fish and poultry. If you drink, do so in moderation because alcoholic beverages are high in calories. "The best way to control your weight is to control your intake of calories," says Dr. Grundy.

Natchez invites tourists to Spring Pilgrimage

Germane to the history of Mississippi, the great discoverer and first colonizer of the southwest was a native of Montreal, Canada.

Pierre LeMoine, Sieur d'Iberville, along with his brothers, "The Canadian Macabees," founded the first settlement in 1699 in Mississippi on the Gulf of Mexico.

The site today is to Mississippi what Jamestown is to Virginia and Plymouth Rock is to Massachusetts.

From the Gulf of Mexico, d'Iberville entered the mouth of the Mississippi.

Determined to ascend this mighty river, this brave band of Canadians defied the strong current of thick muddy water and impenetrable marshes to select the most perfect site for a French colony.

The site selected was the village of the Natchez Indians. In 1716 d'Iberville's brother Bienville established Fort Rosalie which was the beginning of the Natchez Territory.

Through the years the small settlement of Natchez grew and flourished and is now recognized as the oldest settlement on the Mississippi River.

The English regime began in 1763, and under British rule, the river front settlement began to evolve into a town.

In 1779, Natchez passed to Spain.

The Spanish governor who lived in Natchez directed a surveyor to lay out the town on the bluffs as it stands today.

The United States acquired the territory in 1798, and Natchez became the capital of the Mississippi until 1802.

In 1817 Mississippi became the 20th state to join the Union. With coming of the steamboat, Natchez quickly became a wealthy center of culture known throughout the world.

After Mississippi seceded from the Union in 1861, the Bonnie Blue flag of the Sovereign State of Mississippi was, for a short time, the flag of Natchez. The Stars and Bars became the sixth flag to which its citizens swore allegiance when they joined the Confederacy.

Although the population of Natchez was small, 1,444 volunteered into the service of the Confederate Army. Since it was not considered a strategic point such as Vicksburg, 72 miles to the north, Natchez suffered only minor damage.

Over 500 antebellum structures still stand today as survivors of that era. Through reconstruction days and much of the great depression, this small town lay dormant.

In 1932, descendants of the great pioneer families of the Old South opened their magnificent houses, replete with authentic and priceless furnishings, to the public.

Today, a major industry in Natchez, tourism is surpassed only by the lucrative oil and gas industry.

Opening its doors to over 150,000 visitors a year, Natchez has once again become known the world over.

Each spring and fall Natchez hosts annual pilgrimages which are the largest and most noted in America today. Fifteen of these famous antebellum houses are on an open daily basis the rest of the year.

Easily accessible to the traveler, Natchez is two hours south of Jackson, the state capital, and three hours north of New Orleans.

Overnight accommodations are available in many of the antebellum mansions as well as area hotels and motels. Campsites are located in the beautiful wooded countryside.

"Hospitality is not just our business, it's our way of life. Come join us," a spokesman for the city stated.

BLACK HISTORY

Mississippi ETV celebrates Black History Month during February with several special programs paying tribute to the accomplishments, talents and dreams of black Americans.

"The Black Eagles," a four-part mini-series to be presented on "Tony Brown's Journal," documents the valiant history of the all-black 99th Fighter Squadron and the 332nd Fighter Squadron during World War II. The four programs can be seen at 8 p.m., Sundays, beginning Feb.

Todd Duncan: A Mighty Voice profiles the noted black baritone who was the first singer to be chosen to play Porgy on the stage in George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." The documentary can be seen at 10:30 p.m., Monday, Feb. 14.

William Marshall stars as "Frederick Douglas, Slave and Statesman" in a one-hour dramatic presentation of the spirit and philosophy of the black leader at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 16.

Black American poetry is spotlighted in "Voices of Our People...In Celebration of Black Poetry" at 9 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 16. Performing are Robert Hooks, Brock Peters and Denise Nicholas Hill.

"Were You There," a series focusing on significant periods of recent Afro-American history through the memories of black men and women, will be rebroadcast at 10:30 p.m., Thursdays, beginning Feb. 17. It was first seen on ETV last summer.

"American Playhouse" presents its production of "The File on Jill Hatch" in three parts at 10 p.m., Fridays, beginning February 18. The drama tells the story of a black American GI in love with an English woman during World War II.

"Fund: The Story of Ella Baker" documents the life work of this little-known civil rights worker. The documentary can be seen at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 23.

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: If an employer refuses to hire or to promote an individual because of his or her race or sex, what recourse does that individual have?

A: Federal law prohibits most employers from discriminating against an individual on the basis of that individual's race, color, sex, religion, or national origin. That means that an employer cannot refuse to hire a person because he is black or refuse to promote him for that reason. Similarly, an employer may not refuse to hire or to promote a woman simply because she is female.

An individual who believes that he or she has been discriminated against in violation of this law may file a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. The complaint must be filed within 180 days of the employer's discriminatory act. The Commission will investigate the complaint. Following the Commission's investigation, the complaining individual may then file a lawsuit against the employer. The lawsuit must be filed within 90 days after the individual receives a letter from the Commission informing him of his right to sue the employer.

Federal agency issues winter safety warning

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission today issued a winter safety warning to consumers on the safe use of heating appliances containing combination control valves.

These controls are used in a variety of heating appliances (such as furnaces and water heaters) that may be fueled by either natural or liquid-petroleum (LP) gas.

They serve the dual purpose of regulating gas supplied to the appliance and of shutting off the gas supply when the pilot light is extinguished.

During the past two years the Commission has been involved with a number of voluntary recalls involving combination control valves manufactured by several firms.

The valves were used in water heaters and furnaces fueled by LP-gas and were recalled voluntarily because the valves did not shut off the flow of LP gas when the pilot light was extinguished.

Because LP gas is heavier than air, leaking fuel tends to settle to the ground or floor near the appliance thereby creating the potential for fire and explosion.

A control valve similar to that used in water heaters and furnaces fueled by LP gas is used in water heaters and furnaces fueled by natural gas.

These valves in some cases also may not shut off the flow of natural gas when the pilot is extinguished. Information available at this time, however, does not indicate that the risk of injury presented by natural gas leaking from the control valve is sufficient for the Commission to take action under its statutes.

This is because natural gas is lighter than air and leaking natural gas tends to vent up and out the dwellings flue (chimney) thereby reducing the likelihood of a fire and explosion.

Regardless of whether the heating appliance is fueled by LP or natural gas, there are several guidelines the Commission urges consumers to follow when operating their appliances.

Read the proper operating procedure for the appliance before relighting a pilot light. Do not attempt to relight the pilot light if there is a smell of gas. Call your LP supplier or gas utility company immediately and await their arrival outside the house.

Never use force or tools (unless the instructions call for them) to make an adjustment on the heating appliance.

Never alter the valve's reset control so that it is forced to stay in a down position. This disables the safety aspect of the control.

Be sure the flue pipe/chimney is cleaned regularly and is not blocked by debris which could prevent leaking gas from venting out of the dwelling.

Checking the operation of the safety valve or any other operation of your liquid petroleum or natural gas fueled appliance is not a "do-it-yourself" job.

If your appliance does not appear to be working properly or if the pilot light will not remain lit, immediately contact your LP gas supplier, local utility company or a qualified contractor to inspect your appliance.

If you smell gas, leave the area immediately, then try to obtain assistance. Following these steps could prevent injuries from fire and/or explosions.

Further information on winter safety can be obtained by calling the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll-free safety Hotline on 800-638-CPSC.

A teletypewriter number for the hearing impaired is 800-638-8270. (Maryland only 800-492-8104).

TIMBERLINE

By David Watts
Hancock County Forester

We here in Hancock County are currently right in the middle of wildfire season and I want to urge all our woodland owners to protect their valuable timber with fire lanes.

Of course, we all need to be more careful with outdoor burning too. Prevention is always the best step.

Mississippi's wildfire season usually begins about mid-November each year when lesser vegetation has been killed by frosts. It normally continues until about mid-April when everything begins to green up.

It was during this period in 1981-82 that more than 100,000 acres in the state were burned.

Approximately 5,200 acres burned in Hancock County. Uncontrolled fire is the most destructive enemy of the forest, there's no question about that. Wildfires usually happen without warning and in only minutes can destroy years of timber growth and untold profits for a forest owner. The saddest part is that most of all of them can be prevented.

Protection against wildfire is essential for successful timber management, and it is simple and inexpensive to provide.

The best and cheapest insurance against wildfire losses is a fire lane. A lane six feet or wider around a timber stand usually is sufficient to secure the area from fire, and it can be constructed by simply plowing or discing.

Old existing fire lanes should be plowed or reworked each year to clean away debris and foliage that collects in them during summer.

Fire lane construction is a service the Mississippi Forestry Commission makes available to landowners for a minimal fee. Those wanting the service should contact my office or call the local dispatching tower. Those numbers are 467-4728 (office), and 255-7152 (tower).

Mississippi Brownbuilder Ken Clifton: One of the Best

Kenneth Clifton, from Perry County, is helping build the economic growth and progress of his state as part of Brown & Root's worldwide engineering and construction team.

Ken joined Brown & Root in 1969 as a rigger and is now a heavy equipment operator. He and his wife, Betty, live in Richton with their two daughters and attend Good Hope Baptist Church. Ken is an avid outdoorsman and particularly enjoys deer hunting.

Another thing about Ken: he's one of the best. He's helping Brown & Root do a better job, because he knows his job and gets it done right.

Wherever Brown & Root works, we always look for people like Ken. We give preference in hiring to people in jobsite communities and offer them opportunities to advance as fast and as far as their abilities and merit take them. That way, we share the benefits of every job with local people and share the economic benefits of payrolls, purchases, savings and taxes with local communities and states.

Mississippi Power Company slated for $101 million share of utility construction budget

Mississippi Power Company President Alan Barton reports the Gulfport-based utility's 1983 construction budget is expected to be just over $101 million.

"Major expenditures during the year will be for new construction projects designed to help reduce the risk of major power outages on the electric system and to improve the operating efficiency of one of the company's largest coal-fired generating units," he said.

Barton said a $115 million construction program is forecast for the three-year period 1983-85, but revisions could be made by Mississippi Power company's board of directors at its quarterly meeting next week.

Projected capital investment items in 1983 include $52.3 million for transmission facilities; $21.2 million for upgrading production facilities; $13.7 million for improving general building facilities, vehicles, and related equipment; $3 million to accommodate new business in the near future; and $5.8 million for strengthening substation and distribution facilities.

"Approximately $46 million is earmarked for work on a new 500,000-volt transmission line extending from the Daniel Electric Generating Plant near Moss Point/Pascagoula to the Louisiana state line where it will interconnect with Gulf States Utilities," Barton stated.

"Under a long-term agreement, Gulf States Utilities will pay all expenses relative to the project, including amortization of its costs, and no expenses in connection with the line will be paid for by Mississippi Power customers."

Mississippi Power Company's budget also includes $5.3 million for this summer's completion of modifications to the boiler of a 500,000-kilowatt generating unit at the utility's Watson Electric Generating Plant between Biloxi and Gulfport.

"The three-year, $27 million project provides for improvements that will increase operating productivity of the coal-fired generating facility which was installed 10 years ago. These changes will help reduce fuel and maintenance costs in the years ahead," Barton emphasized.

Barton said that Mississippi Power Company's construction program has been adjusted in recent years to reflect a slower growth in peak demand since the Arab oil embargo 10 years ago brought in a new era of conservation.

"The budget does not provide for new generating capacity but rather focuses on maintaining and upgrading the electric system throughout southeast Mississippi. However, based on very conservative growth projections, our load will equal our capacity by the early 1990s and beyond then will exceed our production capabilities."

"It now takes a minimum of 8 to 10 years to design and construct a coal-fired generating plant and requires an investment of hundreds of millions of dollars, so decisions on new power production facilities will have to be made before too long."

The construction announced, as well as any future construction projects, can be carried out only as long as Mississippi Power Company is financially strong enough to attract new capital investments through the sale of securities," Barton emphasized.

Mississippi Power Company, a member of the Southern electric system, provides electric service to over 161,000 customers in 23 southeast Mississippi counties.

Southern Company pushes construction program in 1983

Citing the continuing high cost of construction, environmental requirements, and a projected growth in peak energy demands averaging 2.8 percent a year over the next decade, Southern Company President Alvin W. Vogtle Jr., said the building of electric service facilities across the Southeast will require a budget of $2 billion in 1983.

A $3.8-billion construction program for the three-year period 1983-85 also was outlined at a recent meeting of The Southern Company's board of directors.

The new three-year budget calls for continuation of power plant construction at only those sites where work already has been initiated.

In addition, the budget includes funds for building and upgrading transmission lines, substations, distribution facilities, and new customer connections in Alabama, Georgia, northwest Florida, and southeast Mississippi.

"Our construction program has been modified significantly over the past several years as growth in the demand for electricity has slowed," Vogtle said. "But even if the peak use of electric energy grows at a modest rate of only 2.8 percent annually, demand for electricity would double by the year 2008. Thus, we believe the most realistic course is to compete the facilities on which work already is under way."

The Southern electric system currently has generating units under construction at eight sites. When completed, the units will add more than 6.2 million kilowatts of generating capacity to the system.

Vogtle stressed that the construction program will be carried out only "if our earnings are sufficient to support the additional financing which will be required through the sale of securities in the nation's bond and stock markets."

He also noted that the three-year construction budget is based on the assumption that Georgia Power will retain a 50.7-percent interest in the Vogtle Electric Generating Plant.

However, negotiations are under way with the Municipal Electric Authority of Georgia for the sale of an additional interest in the facility of approximately four percent.

If that sale is completed, the three-year construction budget would be reduced by some $107 million.

In other board action, the directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of 42½ cents a share on The Southern Company's common stock, payable March 5, 1983, to stockholders of record Feb. 7.

This marks the 141st consecutive quarter in which the company will have paid a dividend to its stockholders.

The Atlanta-based Southern Company is the parent firm of four electric utilities in the Southeast: Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power, and Mississippi Power.

The Southern Company's common stock is the most widely held electric utility stock in the nation and is one of the 10 most widely held corporate stocks in America.

Power company reports local quarterly taxes

Mississippi Power Company's Bay St. Louis local manager, Ben Benvenuti, reports the utility has paid the city of Bay St. Louis $15,089 and the city of Waveland $3,214 in franchise fees for the fourth quarter of 1982.

Benvenuti said the payments by Mississippi Power Company are used by the cities to help pay for community services such as police and fire protection, education, streets and recreation.

The franchise payments are based on three percent of the Gulfport-based utility's gross revenues received from the sale of electricity to its retail customers in municipalities.

Mississippi Power Company's fourth quarter payments brings the franchise fee total for 1982 to $72,286.03 for Bay St. Louis and $42,452.52 for Waveland.

Mississippi Power Company pays a franchise fee to 52 municipalities in its 23-county service area in southeast Mississippi. The utility has paid more than $5 million in franchise funds to these towns and communities during the four quarters of 1982.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

I've had many questions from you about Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA's). For the next several weeks I want to give you a concise but fairly comprehensive look at IRA's. They can be especially beneficial to you if the tax deduction lowers your income tax bracket.

Starting in January, 1983, millions of taxpayers could start to participate in a whole new concept in saving for retirement. All income earners are eligible for an IRA, even if covered by a company pension plan.

A rundown on the IRA rules is as follows: — Up to $2,000 for each earner can be put into an IRA and deducted from income in the current year. If you earn less than $2,000 annually, any amount up to what you earn can be set aside.

— If a married couple has a non-earning spouse, the total that can be set aside is $2,250. No more than $2,000 of that amount can be in either spouse's name.

— Not only is the amount set aside not subject to income taxes, but any interest earned on the money is also tax deferred. Once you start withdrawing the principle or income, it is taxed as regular income. Since that occurs after retirement, most people will be in a lower income tax bracket.

— You cannot start to withdraw money until age 59½ without a penalty, and you must start withdrawing by age 70½.

— If you withdraw before age 59½, there will be a 10% penalty, and the amount will be taxed as ordinary income. Other penalties could also apply if you pay any taxes on early withdrawal penalties.

— An IRA cannot be used as collateral for a loan. If used, it is treated as though you withdrew it, and it is subject to both income taxes and the 10% penalty.

— A beneficiary is named when an IRA is opened. In case of death, the IRA goes to this beneficiary, either as a lump sum or over 5 years. The beneficiary can choose to roll the IRA they inherit into an IRA for their own retirement years without penalty.

— In case of permanent disability, the money can be withdrawn without penalty.

— You can cancel your option without penalty within 7 days after opening an IRA. You would forfeit any interest earned but would not pay a penalty.

NERVOUSNESS

This is a state of affairs that robs your body very quickly of its vitality and energy. You become easily irritated, shaky and even dizzy, tense and tight inside, losing your joy for living. The symptoms of nervousness are numerous, and there is no definite medical cause or cure. However, Chiropractic has found that almost every case of nervousness is accompanied and directly related to irritated nerve fibers within the nervous system, caused by an existing state of nerve interference within the nervous system. The reason why Chiropractic care is so effective in such situations is because our examination is designed to locate irritating nerve irritations and interference along the course of the spinal cord and nerves. Once the cause has been found, then Chiropractic spinal adjustments will remove the nerve interference and the symptoms will abate as the nervous system functions normally again and good health is once more restored to the individual along with rest for life.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

PROPERTY CAN BE LOST

QUESTION: A neighbor told me he lost title to some property because someone farmed it for a period of time. During this time my neighbor did not know it was being farmed. Could this have happened? J. V. Brookhaven ANSWER: Dear J. V. If you own real estate, you should be aware at all times of who is in charge of or possesses the surface. If you are not, it is quite possible for you to lose title to the land without your consent and without being paid.

The principle of law allowing this to happen is known as adverse possession. Adverse possession, which is also referred to as title by prescription in some jurisdictions, is a method of acquiring title to property by possession for a statutory period of time.

In order to acquire such title certain conditions must be fulfilled:

1. There must be actual possession which is open and visible. This means that the property must be openly used in a manner which could be readily observed, such as by the construction of improvements, the enclosure of fences or walls, or the cultivation of fields.

2. The possession must be hostile to the true owner's title. Hostile means the person in possession is denying the true owner's title.
3. Possession must be exclusive. This means that the person in possession must claim right to the possession against the whole world; the claimant cannot share ownership with the true owner. Likewise, allowing the public to use the property would remove the exclusivity of possession.

4. The possession must be continuous and uninterrupted for a sufficient statutory period. This time period varies from 3-25 years and if the claimant gives up occupancy the time period must begin again. It should be noted that a person cannot claim adverse possession against the state or federal government.

5. Some states require that property taxes be paid by the claimant during the time of possession.

Because of this principle, you should be especially careful when fences are built, driveways are poured or buildings are constructed. Property boundaries can actually change over time due to misplacement of a fence.

For advice on how adverse possession can affect you, contact an attorney.

EQUAL CREDIT ACT

I recently read where as a female I am protected under the Equal Credit Opportunity Act from discrimination by lenders on the basis of sex. Can you tell me what can and cannot be done by a lender under the act? L. P. Louisville

As originally passed, the Equal Credit Opportunity Act prohibits discrimination by lenders on the basis of sex or marital status in any aspect of a credit transaction. As of 1977, the act was extended to cover additional protected groups of borrowers.

The law is very broadly worded and covers all phases of a credit transaction. Included in the lender's lists of "do's" and "don'ts" are the following:

- Do not ask about a person's birth control practices or intentions to bear children.
- Do tell the applicant that income from alimony or child support need not be disclosed unless the applicant wishes this source of income considered.

- Do tell the applicant that the Federal government needs certain information for monitoring purposes but that this information will not be used as a means of discrimination.
- Do not require a spouse to co-sign a credit instrument except where required by state law.
- Do not use age in evaluating an applicant's credit worthiness.

- Do not require the applicant to reveal marital status.
- Do furnish credit information in the names of both spouses, if both are participating in the loan.
- Do notify the applicant within 30 days whether you are approving the loan or taking an adverse action.

Do give a specific reason for an adverse action.

Do retain records for at least 25 months after notifying applicant of action taken.

A lender in your town should be able to provide a copy of the act for your inspection.

Book Review

By JOE PILET

What Everyone Needs to Know About Law (U.S. News & World Report Books, 2300 N. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037, $7.95) is a U.S. News & World Report book printed with the purpose of making basic aspects of law intelligible and readable — and do it in a concise form.

While the book recognizes the need of counsel in most cases, it is a guide to problems most citizens face at some time or other. There is a chapter on Legal Tips for Better Banking; Tax Troubles, Law and Family, Law and Your Property, Making a Will, Planning an Estate, etc.

There are answers to everyday questions such as: Can you be required to support a teen-aged child who leaves home? How much force may you legally use to protect yourself and your property?

Can the Internal Revenue Service question your income tax return, if it fails to act within three years after you file it? Who is a trespasser? To quote from the book: "A trespass is the unlawful invasion of another person's real property."

Traditionally the individual has enjoyed the right to own and use land without interference. Thus a person who intentionally enters private property without the owner's consent technically commits trespass, regardless of whether or not he harms the property.

Example of technical trespass include animals intruding on one's property, people using private property as a short cut, children throwing rocks on someone's land, etc."

A glossary defines legal words with which the general populace may be unfamiliar, and the index covers everything from abstracts and administration of estates through tax audits and wrongful dishonor of checks. As a reference book for the home library the book clearly defines a citizen's rights and obligations — a sort of weapon to protect the individual.

"The guide has, of course, a complete listing of state parks and campgrounds," she says, "but we have also included many other categories such as cultural organizations and institutions, chambers of commerce, visitor and convention bureaus, members restaurants in the Mississippi Restaurant Association, lodging facilities in the Mississippi Hotel/Motel Association, hospitals with 24-hour emergency rooms, and even banks which provide international currency exchange."

The guide separates the state into five sections: the Hills, the Delta, the Plains, the Heartland, and the Gulf Coast. Each geographic section includes a sample calendar of events, telephone numbers and location for the nearest Highway Patrol Office, and attractions and facilities from art museums to jogging routes.

Beginning with general information on the state, the guide also includes mileage and temperature charts, along with special sections on the Mississippi River, the Natchez Trace Parkway, and annual state pilgrimages.

According to Ms. Hitt, the cost breakdown for the 100,000 copies of the guide is approximately 32 cents per issue. Beyond that, the $24,000 spent in production costs remain in the state since the entire project was completed in Mississippi.

The Mississippi Travel Guide will be distributed to anyone in or outside the state who contacts the Mississippi Department of Economic Development, Division of Tourism, by phone or letter. The in-state toll-free number is 1-800-962-2346, and the out-of-state toll free number is 1-800-647-2290.

North American Wildlife published by the Reader's Digest is a popular reference book at the library check-out counter.

Deservedly so. It is an authentic illustrated guide to about two thousand plants and animals.

The illustrations are in full color and a delight to look upon.

One of the pleasures is ease in locating subject matter. The book is color-coded and has identification charts and habitat guides. In the back there is an index to scientific names.

It was no small task to put this 559-page book together.

Listed are an impressive number of contributing artists, contributors and consultants with Durward L. Allen, professor of Wildlife Ecology of the Department of Forestry and Natural Resources at Purdue University named consulting editor.

There is a separate chapter on mammals, birds, reptiles and amphibians, fish, invertebrates, trees and shrubs, wildflowers, non-flowering plants and mushrooms.

Information found in this volume is equivalent to an entire shelf of single-subject references. A boon to teachers, students, parents, the work is a superbly crafted volume.

Restaurant Association slates seminars

The Mississippi Restaurant Association will conduct two seminars in Jackson on the new federal tip reporting requirements.

The seminars will be held on Thursday, Feb. 10 at LeFleur's Convention Center.

The first seminar will be held from 9 a.m. to noon then repeated from 2 to 5 p.m.

The seminars will be conducted by Robert Palmer, associate general counsel for the National Restaurant Association who will be assisted by T. S. Davenport CPA, representing the Mississippi Restaurant Association.

Palmer and other National Restaurant Association representatives are scheduled to meet with the IRS in Washington on Feb. 2 to discuss the proposed regulations on the new law.

These proposed regulations go into effect on the same date as the new law, Jan. 1, 1983, but have not been finalized by the IRS at the present time.

The seminars are free of charge to any Mississippi Restaurant Association member, their accountants, staff or other personnel provided the operator-member registers on their behalf. There will be a $25 registration to non-members.

For additional information contact Judy Shute, Mississippi Restaurant Association, 4506 Office Park Drive, Jackson, MS 39236. Phone, 962-4281.

VA income questionnaires past due

Annual income questionnaires mailed last November to certain Mississippi recipients of Veterans Administration pensions should have been returned to Philadelphia, Pa. or to the Jackson VA Regional office by Jan. 1, 1983, according to Mike Ladner, Hancock veterans service officer.

Failure to have done so could result in suspension of VA benefits, he stressed.

Ladner urges those who received but haven't returned the questionnaire to do so immediately. If the questionnaire was lost, the recipient should contact the VA Regional office immediately.

More information can be obtained by contacting the Jackson VA Regional office at 432-5996 in the Biloxi/Gulfport area; or toll free statewide at 1-800-682-5270.

Back When Natural Gas Cost a Nickel

Once upon a time natural gas was cheap. In fact it sold for a nickel an MCF (1000 cubic feet). Today it sells for considerably more.

Way back then United Gas bought it cheap and sold it cheap. This company built thousands of miles of pipelines to deliver this marvelous, cheap fuel to Gulf South cities and new industries.

We're proud that United Gas' great pipeline network helped supply the fuel and raw material that industrialized much of the Gulf South. And this low-cost, clean, efficient fuel was a great incentive in attracting industry to the South.

But, natural gas isn't cheap anymore... and will never be again. It's expensive. We attempt to buy at the lowest possible market price, but we're just a long pipeline between those who sell and those who buy.

And as natural gas grows more valuable, the need for conservation grows more imperative. Conserve. The economic future of our region depends on natural gas. What we save today will be needed tomorrow.

Marketing specialist reports year's best citrus quality, price

By ANN O. RUSHING
Extension Marketing
Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

It's citrus season, with the best quality and price you'll find all year. Citrus goes with everything.

Oranges, lemons, grapefruit, tangerines and limes — each citrus variety has its own individuality and imparts it to meats and main dishes, to vegetables, salads, breads and spreads, to beverages and desserts. In addition to all of these, fresh citrus lets you snack endlessly.

Citrus fruits are popular with all ages from tiny tots to senior citizens. They're a real nutritious boon to all because they have an abundance of wholesome nutrients the body needs. They are a major food source of vitamin C and potassium and a reasonably good source of vitamin A, iron and folic acid. Magnesium and trace elements also are present.

Carbohydrates are there, too, giving calories for energy. This is in the form of fruit sugars that the body can absorb. Citrus fruits are low in sodium content and this is good news for people who must limit how much sodium they eat.

If you like one, you'll like all including — golden juicy oranges, bright yellow lemons, honey colored and ruby red grapefruit, easy-to-peel tangerines and zippy limes. Each appeals to today's consumer demands such as versatility, nutritional value and money savings. As a consumer, you want to know as much as you can about the food you buy and how to get the greatest benefit from the food you serve your family.

When selecting citrus fruits, look for smooth skins that are free of blemishes and soft spots. The fruit should feel firm and heavy. Look for advertised specials, since stores will advertise sizes most plentiful and thus the best buy.

Most citrus fruits will keep at room temperature for about a week to ten days. Tangerines may not last as long. Store away from heat in a well-ventilated room.

In the refrigerator, store in the covered vegetable crisper where temperatures are warmer. The best temperature range for oranges and tangerines is 45 to 48 degrees F. For lemons, grapefruit and limes, 55 to 58 degrees F is optimum.

Since it is impractical to store fruit at different temperatures, you can keep the latter fruits longer by storing in sealed plastic bags. In the refrigerator, citrus should last for two to three weeks.

To help you plan the number or oranges you will need in recipes calling for fresh oranges, these approximate equivalents will help:

Three to four medium-size oranges yield one cup (8-oz.) of juice.

Two medium-size oranges yield one cup (8-oz.) of bite-size pieces.

One medium-size orange yields four teaspoons of grated peel.

One medium-size orange yields five to six ounces of puree.

One orange yields 10 to 11 sections.

Avoid buying lemons with bruised, bumpy or wrinkled skins. This shows they are either too old, badly stored or culls from the crop. Remember you're going to use the whole fresh lemon in decorative arrangements, then the grated peel or shell, and of course the juice. That's the way smart, dollar-wise consumers think today!

Consumers are rediscovering lemon tricks great-grandmother used day after day, but obviously failed to pass on to their granddaughters. They've rediscovered that lemons can be used around the house, not just for their fragrance, but for other household uses such as copper and aluminum cleaning and keeping the garbage disposal smelling fresh.

So, naturally, you'll want to keep plenty of lemons around. They add color, cheer and good eating to every day of the year.

If salt is a "no no" on your table, use lemon juice for extra flavor. Roll a lemon and place a toothpick in the end. Remove the pick. Give food a few squirts and replace toothpick. Then store lemon in the refrigerator until you need the next fresh squeeze.

Sea Explorers Clean Up Louisiana Waterways

Sixteen tons and what do you get?

If you're members of a unique Sea Explorers Marine and Environmental Flotilla in Louisiana, the answer is likely to be a lot of debris and clean waterways around New Orleans.

Keeping our waters clean

Sea Explorers Marine and Environmental Flotilla members spend much of their time keeping the waters around New Orleans clean.

is not a new project for the Sea Explorers, a branch of the Boy Scouts of America. The Marine and Environmental Flotilla, working on Lake Pontchartrain and the other bodies of water in the New Orleans area is, however, the only one of its kind in the nation.

The campaign is paying off, according to George Turner, skipper of the crew. "We're beginning to see the results," says Turner.

Thanks to the donation of three 17-foot boats, motors and trailers, the flotilla sends out teams of youngsters several times a week. They skim debris from the waterways, talk up water safety and cleanliness and distribute litter bags to local boaters.

The campaign is paying off, according to George Turner, skipper of the crew. "We're beginning to see the results," says Turner.

Black History Month

BLACK HISTORY MONTH—Mississippi ETV celebrates Black History Month during February with several special programs depicted here by Mississippi ETV art director Glenn Warren. In the upper lefthand corner is Tony Brown of "Tony Brown's Journal," which will air a four-part series on blacks in the military, "The Black Eagles," at 6 p.m., Sundays, beginning Feb. 6. A scene from "The Black Eagles" is illustrated in the lower righthand corner. Performing a he-de-ho in his zoot suit and white hat is Cab Calloway, who can be seen in "Were You There," a series spotlighting famous and not-so-famous blacks in American history. It can be seen at 10:30 p.m., Thursdays, beginning Feb. 17. In the top hat and tails is Lorenzo Tucker, sometimes called the "black Valentino," also from the series "Were You There." Ella Baker, lower lefthand corner, a little-known civil rights giant, is paid tribute in "Fund! The Story of Ella Baker" at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 23. In the center of the drawing is Frederick Douglass, whose life is documented in "Frederick Douglass, Slave and Statesman" at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 16.

Your Horoscope Guide

By GINA, Copley News Service

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — Also Aries Ascendant — Take time out to relax and recoup your energies. Obstacles can work themselves out and may not be worth the energy to attack head on. A loved one is very supportive of you and displays affection with gifts and tender, loving care.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Also Taurus Ascendant — Changes or problems in your romantic relationships can be understood through honest, open discussions. Take it easy at work and let others carry the ball. Cut down on social activities, too — you need time alone to sort out your thoughts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) — Also Gemini Ascendant — Mix business with pleasure to good advantage now. Host parties that benefit your career. You're more serious than usual — about romantic commitments and your financial picture, too. Investments and corporate dealings are favored.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) — Also Cancer Ascendant — Property deals that have been hanging fire can conclude now. It is a time of culminations and may apply to a relationship as well. Don't believe the gossip at work. A close relative may be "leaving the fold" and you must adjust to it.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) — Also Leo Ascendant — You may have problems to solve involving your children and home life. Use your intuitive flashes to good advantage in finding solutions. Some of your hunches should involve money-making inventions. Use your creative imagination.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Also Virgo Ascendant — Take a good hard look at your personal security and financial programs. Collect old debts and begin a savings plan. Solidify the gains you've made and take time out to relax and regroup. Pressures are lifting and you can "reap the rewards."

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Also Libra Ascendant — A good time to improve your personal appearance. Shop for clothes and up-grade your wardrobe. A close friendship may be strained with some confusion or deceit involved. Let it end if it makes you tense or patch it up at week's end.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Also Scorpio Ascendant — You could feel the pressure of time to accomplish all the things you want to do. An element of confusion or deception could add to your dis-ease. You may want to "chuck it all" and withdraw into your thoughts — just don't go to extremes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Also Sagittarius Ascendant — Take the initiative, meet with important people, make announcements of your plans — you're in the driver's seat. Social life sparkles with stimulating conversations and the unattached may form a new, meaningful relationship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) — Also Capricorn Ascendant — You may have to change some intermediate plans but be patient and keep on the track to your ultimate goal. Your intuition helps you overcome obstacles. You could be asked to help solve problems of close family members.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) — Also Aquarius Ascendant — Your imagination is hyperactive just now so use it in constructive ways. Not the time to loan or borrow money. Friends and people you depend upon may not "come through" quite suddenly. Wait until week's end to solve financial snarls.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) — Also Pisces Ascendant — Fulfill your responsibilities and you can achieve much now. You work best in cooperation with or for others and by using your organizational abilities. Turn over small details to others and take the leadership role with courage and confidence.

For more complete forecast, read indications for your Ascendant sign plus Birth sign. To find your Ascendant sign, count ahead from Birth sign the number of signs indicated.
